The day was very cool (15 degrees) and wet. The rain started shortly before 11am with very heavy falls and continued for most of the day. With the rain belting down it was interesting to see how much dirt runs off into the lagoon. Why did we sail in these conditions do you ask? - because the wind was up and we decided to give it a go. The weather was also a good test for our yacht's electrics, with some of us having a few issues with batteries. After 10 races in these conditions we all agreed that the yachts had performed well under the heavy skies. In the Soling 1M class the day was won by Sid (14 points), followed closely by Maurice (15 points), with Terry coming third (18 points). In the 10 Raters the day winner was Maurice (8 points), followed by Terry (13 points), with Sid and Ian in equal third place (18 points). Whilst today was interesting with plenty of precipitation - I would like to order a sunny, windy day for our next outing!
